INTRODUCTION

Every job that requires human effort has a work environment. That work environment can be best described in terms of behavior. Simply put, "If the job could talk, what behavioral characteristics would it ask for?" When you match the behavioral style of the person to the job, the person will be better able to perform the job requirements. If the behavior of the person does not match the job, there will be tension between the job and the person's natural behavior, which may affect longevity and work performance.

This report provides you with information on the intensity of each of the four factors of the behavioral analysis. If you find a statement that does not apply to the job, delete it. Compare this report with the job description and utilize it to understand and maximize the effectiveness of the person in the specific job.
